

IRIS Plus

*Accurate, Easy-to-Use
Identification with Iris Capture*

Iris scanners use infrared technology to capture high-resolution images of the iris (circular, colored part of the eye).

Advanced Iris Recognition Technology

DataWorks Plus now offers iris capture and recognition with Iris Plus. Iris recognition systems are quickly emerging as a highly accurate and reliable tool for biometric identification. Capture technology has become more sophisticated and cost effective and capabilities will continue to evolve making iris recognition the future of biometric identification.

Quick, Accurate Enrollment

Making an iris scan is as quick and easy as taking a picture. With the IRIS Plus capture module, you can collect valuable iris scans during routine bookings which can then be used for future matching and identification purposes. The iris capture process can be seamlessly integrated with your workflows. The iris images are then securely stored within the individual's booking record along with any mugshots or SMT images.

Stable & Unique

Like fingerprints, no two people, even twins, have the same iris. The unique patterns of the iris are used for verification or identification of an individual. High-resolution iris images actually contain 100 more reference points for comparison than a fingerprint. When checking for identification or verification, false acceptance and rejection rates are very low.

- Store iris images within the booking record
- High accuracy with small footprint
- Faster than fingerprint scans
- As accurate as fingerprints
- Low error rates
- Fast enrollment process
- Not intrusive, non-invasive
- Not impeded by glasses or contact lenses
